

It's an open and shut case.

Decision's OCR 7600 outstrips IBM's 3886 by 2:1.

IBM says this is the year of the optical character. We agree. What we don't agree on is price and performance. At the National Computer Conference we demonstrated a faster, less complicated Optical Data Entry system as compared to the IBM 3886, Model 2, at a price 50% less.

We're so proud of our OCR 7600 that we open it up for close scrutiny. Check these features. Note the compactness, simplicity and ease of operation. If it looks something like a Xerox machine, that was by design.

Decision's OCR improves operator efficiency multifold and it reads your own existing forms! The 7600 handles a wide variety of pages and documents and reads alphanumeric A & B fonts, numeric hand printing and data in a variety of additional fonts, including Courier, upper and lower case.
