

Lotus 1-2-3

1-2-3 is an advanced, all-in-one software program that combines the most important functions — spreadsheet analysis, information management and graphing — into one flexible, fast, and easy-to-use program.

1-2-3 provides the largest workspace on the market today for a personal computer software program — 2048 rows by 256 columns. The spreadsheet features more than 50 functions for building complex models with speed and ease, including a full range of mathematical, logical, financial, statistical, and database statistical functions.

Information management features let you retrieve data using a wide range of criteria, and rapidly enter, query, and sort data.

Graphics of up to six variables can be quickly constructed from the spreadsheet or database. 1-2-3's rapid graphics capability permits the use of graphs as an almost instantaneous analytical tool in combination with spreadsheet and database.

1-2-3's built-in applications-generating tool, called macros, lets the user develop custom applications and combine frequently used keystroke sequences into a single keystroke.

1-2-3 reads files from many programs, including VisiCalc® and dBase II™. Over 200 on-line help screens guide the user through all aspects of the program, and an interactive tutorial diskette introduces the new user to 1-2-3.
